

The Tadhana Project

1970s

As part of his attempt to appear as an intellectual and president-scholar, Marcos Sr. assembled a team of historians in the early 1970s to produce a 21-volume history of the Philippines, which was to be credited to him. The Tadhana project was a state-funded, well-resourced endeavor. By the end of his presidency, only four of the supposed 21 volumes had been completed.

Bilang bahagi ng kanyang pagtatangkang pagmukain ang sarili bilang isang intelektwal at akademiko, tinipon ni Marcos Sr. ang ilang mga historyador upang magsilbing ghost writers para sa akda tungkol sa kasaysayan ng Pilipinas. Ang koleksiyong bubuuin na aabot sa dalawampu't isang tomo ay tinawag na Tadhana project. Sa kabuuan tanging apat na tomo lamang sa koleksyon ang natapos.
